

As a senior citizen who does not like rock and roll or other contemporary music, and who lothes talk radio, I have been squeezed out of the radio market. In the last few years, almost all of my favorite stations have been purchased by conglomerates like Clear and have gone off the air. In my area, I have my chioce of two stations! One is a public radio station that does not always play what I like. Thje other is a weal AM station that preempts its format often for informmercials and sporting events. I have complained to the FCC, which answers that it "Cannot control content".

A month ago I got a new car. It has XM Radio. At last, I can hear what I like on radio again! Between its 40's station, Frank's Place, Broadway Channel, Sunny and its classical music, I again have a choice of what I can hear.

I am gladly paying the monthly fee to hear what I like. I somehow thought that radio was in the public domain, for all of its listeners, not the broadcasters. XM Radio has given me a new life on radion. DO NOT TAKE IT AWAY!
